Handbook for Wisconsin Municipal Officials
The League of Wisconsin Municipalities first published its Handbook for Wisconsin Municipal Officials in 1975. In 2001, we substantially revised the Handbook, broadening its scope and providing more comprehensive information. We noted in the Preface to the 2001 revision that while there had been big changes in technology that changed how municipalities were conducting business and communicating with constituents, the business of municipal government was largely unchanged. Municipalities still had to adopt annual budgets, plow streets and repair potholes, protect businesses and neighborhoods from crime, extinguish fires, collect solid waste and enforce zoning and other regulations. As we update our Handbook ten years later, municipalities still need to provide these critical services but their ability to fund these services is increasingly constrained. The biggest change since the Handbook was last revised, is that the legislature has capped municipal tax levies and reduced state aids to municipalities. Difficult economic times have required municipalities to make difficult choices. Also, the face of collective bargaining in Wisconsin has been dramatically changed. This updated version of the Handbook reflects the legal changes that have occurred since the last update but continues to focus on traditional issues of concern to Wisconsin municipal officials such as home rule authority, open meetings, public records, budgeting, municipal borrowing, contracts and parliamentary procedure.

A cautionary note: this Handbook provides general background information on key local government issues and is designed to serve as a reference tool for municipal officials and staff. We want to emphasize that the League and the authors of the various chapters are not rendering any legal, accounting or other professional services or advice. Because laws can change rapidly, information contained in this handbook may become outdated. Municipal officials should confer with the municipal attorney, engineer, accountant, planner and other professionals to obtain the most accurate and up-to-date information on the topics discussed in this publication.
Acknowledgments

The Handbook for Wisconsin Municipal Officials is a publication of the League of Wisconsin Municipalities. It was co-authored by Curt Witynski, Claire Silverman and Daniel Olson of the League staff, and also by the following persons who generously contributed their substantial expertise and time to this Handbook as follows:

Attorney Luis Arroyo, Michael Best & Friedrich LLP, authored the “Municipal Employees are Employees At Will” and “Effective Policy on Discipline” sections in Chapter 5.

Attorney Scott C. Beightol, Michael Best & Friedrich LLP, authored the “Civil Service” and “Municipal Residency Requirements” sections in Chapter 5.

Attorney Remzy Bitar of Crivello Carlson SC authored the section on “Municipal and Public Official Liability” in Chapter 4.

Attorneys Julianna Ebert, Jeff Peelen, Bridgette DeToro, Allison Buchanan and Alex Gore co-authored Chapter 9, “Municipal Borrowing in Wisconsin” and the section on “Municipal Investments” in Chapter 8. Julianna Ebert and Jeff Peelen are partners in the Public Finance group of Quarles & Brady LLP in Milwaukee. Bridgette DeToro, Allison Buchanan and Alex Gore are associates in the Public Finance group of Quarles & Brady LLP in Milwaukee.

Attorney Robert W. Mulcahy, Michael Best & Friedrich LLP, authored the “Right of Employees to Unionize” and “Privatization of Public Services” sections in Chapter 5.

Attorneys Steven A. Nigh and Mitchell W. Quick, Michael Best & Friedrich LLP, authored the “Fair Labor Standards Act” section in Chapter 5.

Attorney Brian Ohm, UW-Madison, Department of Urban & Regional Planning, authored “Land Use” Chapter 10.

Attorney Charles Palmer, Michael Best & Friedrich LLP, authored the “Worker’s Compensation” section in Chapter 5.

Attorney Kirk A. Pelikan and Marion C. Smith, Director of Labor Research, Michael Best & Friedrich LLP, co-authored the sections “Health Insurance and Other Benefits” and “Health Insurance Continuation Under State and Federal Law” in Chapter 5.

Marion C. Smith, Director of Labor Research, Michael Best & Friedrich LLP, authored the “Wisconsin Retirement System” section in Chapter 5.
I. Municipal Governments In Wisconsin ................................................................. 1
   A. Definition, Legal Status and Organization of Cities and Villages ..................... 1
      1. Distinctions Between Municipalities and Towns ........................................... 2
      2. Distinctions Between Cities and Villages ...................................................... 3
      3. Changing from a Village to a City ............................................................... 5
      4. Changing from a City to a Village ............................................................... 6
      5. Classes of Cities ......................................................................................... 6
      6. Distinctions Among Classes of Cities .......................................................... 6
   B. Incorporation, Consolidation and Other Ways Cities and Villages are Created ...... 7
      1. Incorporation ............................................................................................... 7
      2. The Rule of Prior Precedence .................................................................... 8
      3. The Oak Creek Law ................................................................................... 9
      4. Consolidation ............................................................................................. 9
   C. Annexation and Detachment .......................................................................... 10
      1. Methods of Annexation ............................................................................ 10
      2. Municipal Boundaries Fixed by Judgment ............................................... 10
      3. Detachment of Territory ........................................................................... 11
      4. Detachment of Farm Lands from Cities and Villages ................................. 11
   D. The Powers of City and Village Governing Bodies ......................................... 11
      1. The History of Home Rule in Wisconsin ................................................... 12
      2. Sources of Home Rule ............................................................................. 12
      3. State of Wisconsin Home Rule ................................................................ 15
      4. Emergency Power .................................................................................... 18

II. Municipal Officers .......................................................................................... 21
   A. Qualifications for Holding Office .................................................................. 21
   B. Methods of Selecting Municipal Officers ....................................................... 21
   C. Election and Appointment of Municipal Officers .......................................... 22
      1. Election Process ....................................................................................... 22
      2. Appointment Process .............................................................................. 24
   D. Terms of Office ............................................................................................ 29
   E. Compensation of Municipal Officers ............................................................. 30
      1. Establishment of Salaries ........................................................................ 30
      2. Changing Officers’ Compensation ........................................................... 30
      3. Fringe Benefits ....................................................................................... 32
      4. Expense Reimbursements ..................................................................... 32
      5. Compensation When Acting in More Than One Official Capacity .......... 32
   F. Recalls ........................................................................................................ 33
      1. Registration Statement ......................................................................... 33
      2. Reason for Recall ................................................................................ 33
      3. Circulating the Petition ......................................................................... 34
      4. Challenging the Petition ..................................................................... 34
      5. Appealing Certifications ..................................................................... 34
      6. Recall Elections ................................................................................ 34
G. Removals from Office .............................................................................................................. 34
H. Resignation .............................................................................................................................. 35
I. Vacancies in Municipal Office ................................................................................................ 36
   1. Filling Vacancies .................................................................................................................. 37
   2. Method of Appointment ...................................................................................................... 38
   3. Temporary Vacancies .......................................................................................................... 38
J. Abolishing or Consolidating Municipal Offices .................................................................... 39
   1. Mayor-Council or President-Trustee Governed Municipalities ........................................... 39
   2. Manager-Governed Body Municipalities ........................................................................... 40
K. Creation of New Offices ......................................................................................................... 40
L. De Facto Officers ..................................................................................................................... 40

III. The Governing Body and Other Specific Offices, Commissions and Boards ........ 41
A. The Common Council ............................................................................................................. 41
B. The Village Board .................................................................................................................... 41
C. Statutory Officers ................................................................................................................... 42
   1. Mayor ................................................................................................................................... 42
   2. Village President .................................................................................................................. 43
   3. Alderpersons ....................................................................................................................... 43
   4. Trustees ............................................................................................................................... 43
   5. Clerk ..................................................................................................................................... 43
   6. Deputy Clerk ....................................................................................................................... 44
   7. Treasurer ............................................................................................................................. 44
   8. Deputy Treasurer ................................................................................................................. 44
   9. Comptroller ........................................................................................................................ 44
  10. Manager ............................................................................................................................... 45
  11. Assessor ............................................................................................................................... 45
  12. City Attorney ...................................................................................................................... 46
  13. Police Chief ........................................................................................................................ 46
  14. Fire Chief ............................................................................................................................ 46
  15. Marshal .................................................................................................................................. 47
  16. Constable ............................................................................................................................. 47
D. Other Officers: The Municipal Administrator ...................................................................... 48
E. Municipal Boards and Commissions ..................................................................................... 49
   1. Mandatory municipal boards and commissions ................................................................. 49
   2. Optional municipal boards and commissions .................................................................... 49
   3. A Closer Look at Some Specific Boards and Commissions ................................................. 50
F. Municipal Courts .................................................................................................................. 54
   1. Nature of ............................................................................................................................. 54
   2. Jurisdiction .......................................................................................................................... 54
   3. Powers .................................................................................................................................. 55
   4. Creating ............................................................................................................................... 56
   5. Abolishing ............................................................................................................................ 57
   6. Administration ..................................................................................................................... 57
   7. Records .................................................................................................................................. 58
   8. Proceedings ......................................................................................................................... 58
IV. Conflicts of Interest, Compatibility of Office and Liability ......................... 59

A. State Code of Ethics for Local Officials ......................................................... 59
   1. Municipal Officials Affected .......................................................................... 59
   2. Key Definitions ................................................................................................ 60
   3. Prohibited Conduct ....................................................................................... 60
   4. Local Ethics Ordinance .................................................................................. 61
   5. Advisory Ethics Opinions .............................................................................. 62
   6. Government Accountability Board Guidelines .............................................. 62
   7. Government Accountability Board Opinions ............................................... 63
   8. Enforcement and Penalties .......................................................................... 63

B. Private Financial Interests in Public Contracts (Sec. 946.13) ....................... 64
   1. Prohibited Conduct ....................................................................................... 64
   2. Exceptions ..................................................................................................... 65
   3. Public Contracts Involving Employers, Spouses or Others ......................... 66
   4. Effects of Violation ...................................................................................... 67

C. Other Statutory Conflict Provisions ............................................................... 67
   1. Misconduct in Office (Sec. 946.12) ................................................................. 67
   2. Bribery (Sec. 946.10(2)) ............................................................................... 68
   3. Discounts at Certain Stadiums (Sec. 19.451) .................................................. 68
   4. Fraud by Board of Review Member (Sec. 70.501) ........................................... 68
   5. Liquor Sales and Liquor License Actions (Sec. 125.51(1)(b)) ...................... 68
   6. Sales to Municipal Employees (Sec. 175.10) ................................................... 69
   7. Purchasing Claims at Less than Full Value (Sec. 946.14) ............................ 69
   8. Public Construction Contracts at Less Than Full Value (Secs. 946.15(1) and (3)) 69
   9. Special Privileges From Public Utilities (Sec. 946.11) ............................... 69

D. Compatibility of Offices and Positions ........................................................... 70
   1. The Common-Law Doctrine of Incompatibility .............................................. 70
   2. Statutory Compatibility Provisions ............................................................... 71

E. Municipal and Public Official Liability .......................................................... 72
   1. Municipal Liability Generally ...................................................................... 72
   2. Notice of Injury and Notice of Claim .............................................................. 74
   3. Liability Limits ............................................................................................. 76
   4. Immunities .................................................................................................. 76
   5. Immunity Under Federal Law ...................................................................... 78

V. Municipal Employees ....................................................................................... 79

A. Distinctions Between Municipal Officers and Employees ............................. 79
B. Municipal Employees are Employees at Will ............................................... 80
   1. Public Policy Exception to Employment at Will ................................ .......... 80
   2. Implied Contracts, Employee Handbooks and Collective Bargaining Agreements with Unions ... 81
C. Civil Service .................................................................................................... 81
D. Right of Employees to Unionize ..................................................................... 82
   1. Statutory Protection for Municipal Employees to Unionize ....................... 82
   2. Filing a Petition with the WERC ................................................................. 82
   3. WERC Issues Emergency Rules on Union Recertification Elections .......... 83
   4. Determining the Appropriate Bargaining Unit ......................................... 84
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Section</th>
<th>Title</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>5</td>
<td>Election Procedures</td>
<td>86</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>6</td>
<td>Summary of Union Certification Process</td>
<td>87</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>7</td>
<td>Summary of Selected Labor and Employment Provisions of 2011 Act 32</td>
<td>87</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>E</td>
<td>Health Insurance and Other Benefits</td>
<td>90</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1</td>
<td>Health Plans</td>
<td>91</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2</td>
<td>Mandated Health Plan Benefits</td>
<td>92</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3</td>
<td>Cafeteria Plans</td>
<td>92</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4</td>
<td>Options for Health Care Coverage Cost Containment</td>
<td>93</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>5</td>
<td>Paid and Unpaid Time Off Benefits</td>
<td>93</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>F</td>
<td>Health Insurance Continuation Under State and Federal Law</td>
<td>94</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1</td>
<td>Group Health Plans Subject to COBRA Coverage</td>
<td>95</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2</td>
<td>Qualifying Events</td>
<td>95</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3</td>
<td>Who Must Be Offered COBRA Coverage?</td>
<td>96</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4</td>
<td>Duration of COBRA Coverage</td>
<td>96</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>5</td>
<td>Type of Coverage Required to be Offered</td>
<td>97</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>6</td>
<td>Notices</td>
<td>97</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>7</td>
<td>Relationship of COBRA Coverage With State Law</td>
<td>98</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>G</td>
<td>Wisconsin Retirement System</td>
<td>98</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1</td>
<td>Participation</td>
<td>98</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2</td>
<td>Eligible Employees</td>
<td>98</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3</td>
<td>Funding of the WRS</td>
<td>99</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4</td>
<td>Benefits Under WRS</td>
<td>100</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>5</td>
<td>Calculation of Annuity</td>
<td>101</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>6</td>
<td>Normal Retirement Age</td>
<td>101</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>7</td>
<td>Rehired Annuities</td>
<td>102</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>8</td>
<td>Disability Benefits</td>
<td>102</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>H</td>
<td>Municipal Residency Requirements</td>
<td>103</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1</td>
<td>Enforceability Issues: Determining an Employee’s Residency</td>
<td>103</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2</td>
<td>Residency is a Mandatory Subject of Bargaining: At least for Public Safety Employees</td>
<td>104</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>I</td>
<td>Effective Policy On Discipline</td>
<td>104</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1</td>
<td>Sources of Regulation</td>
<td>105</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2</td>
<td>Elements of Effective Disciplinary Policies</td>
<td>106</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3</td>
<td>Clear Language</td>
<td>106</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4</td>
<td>Investigation</td>
<td>107</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>5</td>
<td>Documentation</td>
<td>107</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>6</td>
<td>Due Process</td>
<td>107</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>J</td>
<td>Worker’s Compensation</td>
<td>108</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1</td>
<td>Exclusivity of Remedy</td>
<td>109</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2</td>
<td>Insurance Requirements</td>
<td>109</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3</td>
<td>Conditions of Liability</td>
<td>109</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>5</td>
<td>Injury</td>
<td>110</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>6</td>
<td>Covered Employees</td>
<td>110</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>7</td>
<td>Injury in the Course of Employment</td>
<td>111</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>8</td>
<td>Deviations</td>
<td>113</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>9</td>
<td>Causation (Arising out of Employment)</td>
<td>114</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>10</td>
<td>Benefits</td>
<td>115</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
VI. Municipal Legislative Procedures ................................................................. 133
A. Regular Meetings .......................................................................................... 133
B. Special Meetings ......................................................................................... 133
C. Common Council or Village Board Meeting Procedures ......................... 134
   1. Presiding Officers ...................................................................................... 134
   2. Quorum ..................................................................................................... 134
   3. Manner of Voting and Recording of Votes .............................................. 135
   4. Attendance at Meetings .......................................................................... 136
   5. Number of Votes Required .................................................................... 136
   6. Refusal to Vote ......................................................................................... 137
   7. Tie Vote .................................................................................................. 138
   8. Mayor and Village President’s Right to Vote .......................................... 138
   9. The Public’s Role ..................................................................................... 138
D. Rules of Parliamentary Procedure ............................................................... 138
   1. Parliamentary Procedure: Handling Formal Motions ....................... 139
   2. Controlling the course and content of the meeting .............................. 143
E. Reconsideration, Rescission and Renewal of Motions .............................. 145
   1. Reconsideration Under Robert’s ............................................................ 146
   2. Rescission under Robert’s ....................................................................... 147
   3. Renewal of Motions under Robert’s ....................................................... 148
F. Mayoral Approval and Veto of Legislation ................................................. 148

11. Medical Expenses ........................................................................................... 116
12. Death Benefits ............................................................................................... 116
13. Violations and Penalties ............................................................................... 116
14. Bad Faith ....................................................................................................... 117
15. Inexcusable Delay ....................................................................................... 118
16. Fifteen Percent Decreased Compensation Against an Employee .......... 118
17. Fraudulent Claims ......................................................................................... 118
K. The Fair Labor Standards Act ...................................................................... 118
   1. The FLSA’s Coverage of Public Sector Employees .............................. 119
   2. Exempt Employees ................................................................................. 120
   3. Minimum Wage, Hours Worked, Overtime and Compensatory Time 121
   4. Special Provisions for Law Enforcement and Fire Protection ............. 123
   5. Preemption ............................................................................................... 124
L. Family and Medical Leave Laws .................................................................. 124
   1. The Federal Law ....................................................................................... 124
   2. The Wisconsin FMLA ............................................................................ 125
M. Americans With Disabilities Act ................................................................ 126
   1. Reasonable Accommodation Under the ADA ..................................... 127
N. Privatization of Public Services ................................................................... 129
   1. Objectives of Privatization ..................................................................... 129
   2. Forms of Privatization .......................................................................... 130
   3. Selective Wisconsin Statutes Addressing Privatization ....................... 130
   4. Duty to Bargain The Decision to Privatize (Pre-Acts 10 and 32) ........ 131
   5. Summary ................................................................................................ 132
VII. Open Government Laws ................................................................. 169

A. Open Meetings ............................................................................. 169
   1. Key Definitions ........................................................................ 169
   2. Notice Requirements ............................................................... 170
   3. Closed Sessions ....................................................................... 172
   4. Voting ..................................................................................... 173
   5. Public Participation .................................................................. 177
   6. Penalties and Enforcement ....................................................... 177
   7. Interpretations of the Law .......................................................... 178

B. Public Records ............................................................................... 178
   1. Public Records Management and Retention ............................ 179
   2. Access to Public Records ......................................................... 179
   3. Custodians of Public Records ................................................. 180
   4. Authority’s Responsibilities and Procedural Requirements ..... 181
   5. Framework for Responding to a Public Records Request ........ 183
   6. Separation of Information ....................................................... 186
   7. Public Employee Personnel Files ............................................ 186
   8. Limited Duty to Notify Persons Named in Certain Types of Records That Will be Released .......................... 187
   9. Records Requiring Notice and Authorizing Augmentation of the Record ......................................................... 187
   10. Requests for Records Containing Personally Identifiable Information ...................................................... 187
   13. Interpretations of the Public Records Law .............................. 189

C. Publication Requirements ............................................................ 189
   1. Official Newspaper .................................................................... 189
   2. Posting of Village Notices ....................................................... 190
3. Timing of Legal Notices ................................................................. 190
4. Notice of Meetings ..................................................................... 191
8. Village Ordinances ..................................................................... 193

VIII. Finance and Taxation ........................................................................ 195

A. Budgeting ........................................................................... 195
   1. The State Budgeting Law ........................................................... 195
   2. Budget Summary and Budget Hearing .................................... 196
   3. Deadline for Adopting a Municipal Budget .......................... 197
   4. Budget Changes .................................................................... 198
   5. Non-Lapsing Reserve Funds .................................................. 198
   6. Board of Estimates Budget System ...................................... 200
   7. Recommended Budget Practices ......................................... 200
   8. Features of a Good Budget Process ..................................... 201

B. Sources of Local Revenues .......................................................... 202
   1. The General Property Tax ...................................................... 203
   2. Local Tax Options ................................................................ 204
   3. State Aid ............................................................................. 207
   4. Expenditure Restraint Program and Computer Aid ................. 214
   5. Payments for Municipal Services Program ......................... 217
   6. Transportation Aids .............................................................. 218
   7. Recycling Grants ................................................................ 221
   8. Payments in Lieu of Taxes (PILOTS) ..................................... 222
   9. Special Assessments .............................................................. 223
  10. Special Charges for Current Services ...................................... 223
  11. Public Improvements, Land Dedications and Fees in Lieu of Land Dedication etc. 223
  12. Impact Fees ....................................................................... 224
  13. User Fees ........................................................................... 225
  14. License and Permit Fees ....................................................... 225
  15. Mobile Home Monthly Parking Permit Fee ......................... 226
  16. Parking Systems .................................................................. 226

C. Financial Administration ............................................................... 226
   1. Claims Against Municipalities .............................................. 226
   2. Disbursements from the Treasury ......................................... 228
   3. Public Depositories ............................................................... 229

D. Municipal Investments ................................................................. 229
   1. Options ............................................................................... 229
   2. Investment Policies ............................................................. 231

E. Property Tax Administration .......................................................... 231
   1. Categories of Property .......................................................... 232
   2. Assessment Procedures ........................................................ 232
   3. County Assessor Option ........................................................ 233
   4. Assessment Methods ............................................................ 233
   5. Equalization ...................................................................... 234
   6. Manufacturing Property ....................................................... 235
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Section</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>IX. Municipal Borrowing in Wisconsin</td>
<td>247</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>A. Overview</td>
<td>247</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>B. Long-term Financing Vehicles</td>
<td>248</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1. General Obligations</td>
<td>248</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2. Revenue Obligations</td>
<td>252</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3. Tax Incremental Financing (TIF)</td>
<td>255</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4. Lease-Purchase Agreements</td>
<td>261</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>C. Short-Term Financing Vehicles</td>
<td>261</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1. General Obligation Bond Anticipation Notes/Grant Anticipation Notes</td>
<td>262</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2. Tax and Revenue Anticipation Notes</td>
<td>262</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3. Revenue Bond Anticipation Notes</td>
<td>263</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>D. Selected topics in Municipal Finance</td>
<td>263</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1. Financing Through Intergovernmental Cooperation</td>
<td>263</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2. Federal Securities Law</td>
<td>264</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3. Federal Tax Implications of Public Financing</td>
<td>267</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>5. Qualified Tax-Exempt Obligations (Bank Qualified)</td>
<td>271</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>7. Federal Tax Laws and Private Activity Rules</td>
<td>273</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>8. Factors Influencing Selection of Financial Methods</td>
<td>274</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>9. The Role of Financial Advisors and Underwriters</td>
<td>274</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>10. The Role of Bond Counsel</td>
<td>275</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>11. Purchasers of Municipal Obligations</td>
<td>276</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>X. Land Use</td>
<td>281</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>A. Administration</td>
<td>281</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>B. Community Planning</td>
<td>282</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>C. Comprehensive Plans</td>
<td>282</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1. The Jurisdictional Coverage of City and Village Comprehensive Plans</td>
<td>283</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2. Procedure for Adopting and Amending Comprehensive Plans</td>
<td>283</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3. Implementing the Comprehensive Plan</td>
<td>284</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>D. Land Use Regulatory Tools</td>
<td>286</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>E. Interim Control Ordinances (Moratoria)</td>
<td>286</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>F. Zoning</td>
<td>287</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1. General Zoning</td>
<td>287</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2. Special Purpose Zoning</td>
<td>292</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
XI. Contracts .................................................................................................................. 299
A. In General .................................................................................................................. 299
  1. The Nature of ....................................................................................................... 299
  2. Length ................................................................................................................... 299
  3. Types .................................................................................................................... 300
  4. Requirements ...................................................................................................... 300
B Power to Contract ...................................................................................................... 300
  1. Express Contract Authority .............................................................................. 300
  2. Implied Contract Authority .............................................................................. 301
  3. Who is Authorized to Enter Into Contracts ....................................................... 301
  4. Prohibited (Ultra Vires) Contracts ........................................................................ 302
C. Public Works Contracts (Prevailing Wage Rates & Hours of Labor) .................. 303
D. Public Construction Contracts .................................................................................. 305
  1. The “Public Construction” Threshold ................................................................ 305
  2. The Expenditure Threshold ................................................................................ 306
  3. Competitive Bidding Exemptions ........................................................................ 306
E. The Bidding Process .................................................................................................. 307
  1. Pre-Qualifying Bidders (Proof of Responsibility Statements) (Optional) .......... 307
  2. Prepare Project Plans & Specifications (Mandatory) ......................................... 308
  3. File Plans & Specifications with Clerk (Mandatory) .......................................... 308
  4. Advertise for Bids (Mandatory) ........................................................................ 308
  5. Receive Sealed Bids ............................................................................................ 309
  6. Review Submitted Bid for Bid Guarantee (Bonds & Certified Checks) ............ 309
  7. Bidder’s Certificates ........................................................................................... 309
  8. Open Bids ............................................................................................................ 309
  9. Review Bid for Subcontractor’s List .................................................................... 310
10. Evaluate Bid ........................................................................................................ 310
11. Evaluate Bidder(s) ............................................................................................. 310
12. Accept or Reject Bid (Award Contract) ............................................................... 310
13. Execute Contract ................................................................................................ 311
F. Intergovernmental Cooperation Agreements .............................................................. 313
  1. Intergovernmental Agreements .......................................................................... 313
  2. Municipal Revenue Sharing Agreements ............................................................ 314
  3. Cooperative Boundary Agreement .................................................................... 315

XII. Public Safety .......................................................................................................... 317
A. Fire Protection ......................................................................................................... 317
  1. Means of Providing Fire Protection .................................................................. 317
  2. Types of Fire Departments .............................................................................. 318
  3. Oversight of Public Fire Departments ................................................................. 319
XIII. Licensing and Regulation .................................................. 325
   A. Licensing and Regulating Businesses and Professions ............ 325
      1. Legal Resources .................................................................. 325
      2. League Conference, Training and Meetings ....................... 326
      3. The League Web Site ....................................................... 326
      4. Sample Ordinances ......................................................... 326
      5. Legislation ........................................................................ 326
      6. Publications ....................................................................... 326
      7. Handbooks ....................................................................... 326
      8. Legal CD ......................................................................... 326
      9. Federal Relations ............................................................. 326
     10. Increased Insurance Options ............................................... 326
     11. The Urban Alliance ........................................................... 327
   B. Preemption of Licensing Powers .......................................... 327
   C. Survey of Statutory Licensing Powers ................................... 327
   D. Alcohol Beverage Licensing .................................................. 328

XIV. Additional Information and Resources ......................... 329
   A. The League of Wisconsin Municipalities ....................... 329
      1. Legal Resources ................................................................. 329
      2. League Conference, Training and Meetings ....................... 330
      3. The League Web Site ....................................................... 330
      4. Sample Ordinances ......................................................... 330
      5. Legislation ........................................................................ 330
      6. Publications ....................................................................... 330
      7. Handbooks ....................................................................... 330
      8. Legal CD ......................................................................... 330
      9. Federal Relations ............................................................. 330
     10. Increased Insurance Options ............................................... 330
     11. The Urban Alliance ........................................................... 330
   B. Other State Associations or Organizations ...................... 331
      1. Wisconsin Association of Assessing Officers .................... 331
      2. Wisconsin Counties Association ...................................... 331
      3. Wisconsin Taxpayers Alliance ......................................... 331
      4. Wisconsin Towns Association .......................................... 331
      5. Municipal Electric Utilities of Wisconsin ......................... 331
      6. UW-Extension, Local Government Center ......................... 331
      7. Municipal Treasurers Association of Wisconsin ............... 331
      8. Wisconsin Municipal Clerks Association ......................... 331
   C. National Associations .......................................................... 332
      1. National League of Cities .................................................. 332
      2. International Municipal Lawyers Association ................... 332
      3. International City/County Management Association .......... 332
      4. Government Finance Officers Association ......................... 332
   D. Selected State Agency Telephone Numbers and Info ........... 332
      1. Department of Administration ........................................... 332
2. Department of Agriculture, Trade & Consumer Protection .......................................................335
3. Wisconsin Economic Development Corporation ......................................................................335
4. Department of Employee Trust Funds .................................................................................335
5. Wisconsin Employment Relations Commission .....................................................................335
6. Government Accountability Board ......................................................................................335
7. Wisconsin Department of Health Services ............................................................................336
8. Wisconsin Department of Justice ..........................................................................................336
9. Wisconsin Department of Military Affairs, Division of Emergency Management ..................336
10. Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources ........................................................................336
11. Public Service Commission of Wisconsin ...........................................................................337
12. Department of Revenue .........................................................................................................337
13. Department of Safety and Professional Services ...................................................................337
14. Wisconsin Secretary of State ...............................................................................................337
15. Department of Transportation ..............................................................................................337
16. Department of Workforce Development ..............................................................................338
D. Selected Federal Agencies ......................................................................................................338
1. Department of Justice ............................................................................................................338
2. Department of Labor ............................................................................................................338
3. Department of the Treasury, Internal Revenue Service, U.S. Treasury .................................338
Municipal Governments In Wisconsin

A. Definition, Legal Status and Organization of Cities and Villages

Wisconsin cities and villages are incorporated, local general-purpose units of government, created at the request of their inhabitants to perform a broad range of local services. Although the services offered vary from municipality to municipality, some examples of typical local services include street maintenance, municipal sewer and/or water, police and fire protection, garbage collection, libraries, parks and recreational facilities and public transportation.

The Wisconsin statutes provide that cities and villages in Wisconsin are bodies “corporate and politic” and have the powers and privileges of municipal corporations at common law and conferred by the Wisconsin Statutes. Wis. Stat. sec. 66.0213(1). The statutes do not define the term municipal corporation. One leading authority on municipal law defines a municipal corporation as:

1 McQuillin, Municipal Corporations sec. 2.8 (3d ed.) (footnotes omitted). The Wisconsin Supreme Court has stated that municipalities are “established by law to assist in the civil government of the state and to regulate and administer the internal or local affairs of the territory within their corporate limits.” Madison v. Tolzmann, 7 Wis.2d 570, 97 N.W.2d 513 (1959). According to the courts, “a municipality is generally defined as ‘a legally incorporated or duly authorized association of inhabitants of limited area for local governmental or other public purposes.’” State ex rel. Town of Norway Sanitary District #1 v. Racine County Drainage Board of Commissioners, 220 Wis.2d 595, 583 N.W.2d 437 (Ct. App. 1998) (quoting Green Bay Metro. Sewerage Dist. v. Vocational, Technical & Adult Educ., Dist. 13, 58 Wis.2d 628, 207 N.W.2d 623.)
1. Distinctions Between Municipalities and Towns

At the time of this writing, there are 190 cities and 406 villages in Wisconsin. Together, they encompass about 70 percent of the state’s population. There are 1,257 towns in Wisconsin. Town governments govern those areas of Wisconsin that are not included within the corporate boundaries of cities and villages. Although the term “municipality” is sometimes defined to include towns,1 “long standing practice defines cities and villages as ‘full’ or ‘true’ municipal corporations and distinguishes them from partial or quasi-municipal corporations such as counties and towns.” Donoghue, “Local Government in Wisconsin,” 1979-80 Wisconsin Blue Book.

Like a city or village, a town is a local general-purpose unit of government and is a body corporate and politic. Wis. Stat. sec. 60.01(1). However, cities and villages are different from towns in some significant ways. As mentioned above, cities and villages are incorporated while towns are not. Proposed incorporations are reviewed by the circuit court or state using certain minimum standards set forth in sec. 66.0205 or 66.0207 to ensure that “the development of territory from town to incorporated status proceed in an orderly and uniform manner ….”

Perhaps the most significant way Wisconsin cities and villages differ from other general-purpose units of local government such as towns and counties is that they have been granted broad authority under the Wisconsin Constitution and statutes to govern themselves in local matters without state interference. The term used to describe this grant of authority to cities and villages is “home rule.” Unlike cities and villages, towns lack constitutional home rule powers. Towns have only those powers that are conferred by statute, or that may be necessarily implied from the statute. Schneider, Wisconsin Town Officers’ Handbook (1994). Unlike towns and counties, cities and villages can expand their boundaries by annexing unincorporated territory.

Another difference is that towns are typically more rural in nature and typically offer fewer services than cities and villages. Earlier in this state’s history, built-up or urban territory was almost exclusively city and village and towns were located almost exclusively in rural territory. Also, cities and villages often had higher populations than towns. Today, such simple observations do not necessarily hold true in all cases. Urban territory is often a mixture of incorporated and unincorporated areas and some towns in this state are more populated and more urban in character than many cities and villages. Generally speaking, however, towns are primarily rural in character and cities and villages typically provide government services to areas where population is more concentrated, and, as a result, generally offer a greater range and complexity of services than do towns. Donoghue, “Local Government in Wisconsin,” 1979-80 Wisconsin Blue Book.

A few other significant differences between incorporated municipalities and towns include the following:

1. Towns have an annual meeting where electors come together to exercise certain powers directly. Electors can also convene a special town meeting. Town meetings and the powers that electors can exercise at those meetings are governed by Wis. Stat. secs. 60.10, 60.11 and 60.12;

2. Until 2003, towns lacked authority to create tax incremental finance (TIF) districts. Towns now have limited TIF authority where the town has a cooperative plan with a city or village and certain other conditions are met, and towns also have industry-specific TIF authority; and

---

1. “Municipality” includes cities and villages; it may be construed to include towns. Wis. Stat. sec. 990.01(22).
2. Wis. Stat. sec. 66.0201(1).
3. Citizens in cities and villages can initiate ordinances and resolutions through the direct legislation process under sec. 9.20 while citizens in towns lack such powers.

2. Distinctions Between Cities and Villages

While the powers of cities and villages are similar, there are differences in the way they are organized. Generally speaking, city government consists of a mayor or city manager and a common council. The mayor or manager is the chief executive officer and the council is the legislative arm of the city. The members of the council are elected from aldermanic districts and the mayor is elected at large. Typically, village government consists of a village board made up of trustees and a village president. The village board serves as the executive officer and legislative body of the village. The village president and the trustees are elected at large.

Since 1933, villages have had the same broad statutory home rule powers as cities to change the structure of their local government or exercise corporate powers. Wis. Stat. secs. 61.34(1) (villages) and 62.11(5) (cities). Most state or federal grants-in-aid or shared revenue laws distinguish between local general purpose units of government on the basis of population or need rather than on legal nomenclature. Therefore, although statutory differences still exist between the basic structures and powers of city and village government, the distinctions have become blurred with the passage of time and local ordinances. In April 2008, the Wisconsin Joint Legislative Council created the Special Committee on Differences in Laws Applicable to Cities and Villages. The Committee was tasked with reviewing the laws pertaining to cities and villages, other than those relating to the fundamental organizational structure of each, to identify inconsistencies in the laws governing cities and villages that exist without any apparent policy rationale. A year later, the Committee issued its report. The legislature subsequently enacted 2009 Wis. Act 173, which eliminated many minor statutory differences between cities and villages that lacked an apparent purpose.

The following is a summary of some differences between Wisconsin cities and villages:

- In cities, when district boundaries are coterminous, the office of alderperson may be consolidated with the office of county supervisor. In villages, only the office of village president may be so combined. Wis. Stat. sec. 66.0503(1)(a). A village changing to a city would not, however, thereby acquire greater representation on the county board, since supervisory districts are based on population. Sec. 59.10(3).

- Mayors have more power than village presidents. A mayor has veto power, is the city’s chief executive officer and is the head of the police and fire departments, except in cities that have adopted optional powers for police and fire commissions under sec. 62.13(6). Sec. 62.09(8). A mayor presides at common council meetings and votes on matters before the council only in cases of a tie. While the mayor is a member of the council, the mayor is not counted in determining whether a quorum is present at a meeting. In contrast, village presidents are trustees; the president presides at village board meetings but is not considered the chief executive officer of the village. Village presidents do not have veto power and may vote on all measures that come before the board. Village presidents are counted in determining whether a quorum is present at the meeting. Sec. 61.24.

- In villages, a majority of the members-elect constitute a quorum of the village board. Wis. Stat. sec. 61.32. The village president, being a trustee is counted in determining whether a quorum is present. In cities, two-thirds of the members of the common council constitute a quorum, except that in cities having not more than five alderpersons a majority constitutes a quorum. Sec. 62.11(3)(b). While the mayor is considered a member of the common council, the mayor is not counted in determining whether a quorum is present at a meeting. Wis. Stat. sec. 62.11(1).

- Cities with populations of 4,000 or more must establish a police and fire commission. Sec. 62.13(2). Nothing in the state statutes expressly requires cities to provide police or fire protection services whereas sec. 61.65(1)(a) requires villages with a population of 5,000 or more to provide police and fire protection services. Villages with a population of 5,000 or more must provide police protection services by creating their own department, contracting for those services with another local governmental entity, or by creating a joint department with a city, town or another village. Sec. 61.65(1)(a). Villages with a population of 5,500 or more must provide fire protection services by any of the three permissible techniques available for the provision of police services or by using a fire company organized under ch. 213. Sec. 61.65(2)(a). Each village with a population of 5,000 or more that creates a joint police department must create a joint board of police commissioners to govern the department. Similarly, each village whose population exceeds 5,500 that creates its own police department or a joint police department with another municipality must create its own or a joint board of police commissioners to govern the department.

- Nominations for elected office are generally made by caucus in villages and are always made by nomination papers in cities. Wis. Stat. secs. 8.05(1) and 8.10. If a village board opts to use nomination papers for candidates for village office, the caucus method cannot be used. Sec. 8.05(4).

- All cities are required to have an official newspaper and to publish all legal notices, council proceedings and ordinances in it. Wis. Stat. sec. 985.06. In villages, no official newspaper is required, although publication in newspapers is required in some instances. Secs. 61.32, 61.50 and 985.05(1). Also, in villages only ordinances that impose a forfeiture or penalty must be published or posted. Sec. 61.50.

- The list of statutory officers for cities is somewhat longer than for villages. For example, fire chiefs and police chiefs are listed as city officers in Wis. Stat. ch. 62. but they are not listed as village officers in ch. 61. Compare sec. 62.09(1)(b) with sec. 61.19 - 61.29. However, both cities and villages are authorized to create additional offices not listed in the statutes and eliminate offices listed in the statutes. Other statutory city officers that are not mentioned as village officers in Wis. Stat. ch. 61 include comptroller, attorney, engineer, local health officer or local board of health, street commissioner and board of public works. Except for the offices of city attorney and health commissioner, these offices may be eliminated and their duties transferred as provided under sec. 62.09(1)(b).

- The extraterritorial zoning and plat approval jurisdiction of first, second and third class cities extends to the unincorporated area within three miles of their corporate limits. Fourth-class cities and villages have extraterritorial zoning and plat approval jurisdiction for only one and one-half miles beyond their corporate boundaries. See secs. 62.23(7a)(a) and 236.02(5).

- Cities, but not villages, are expressly authorized by Wis. Stat. sec. 66.0923 to jointly construct or otherwise acquire, equip, operate and maintain a county-city auditorium. Similarly, cities, but not villages, are expressly authorized by sec. 66.0925 to jointly construct or otherwise acquire, equip, operate and maintain a county-city safety building.
• Village library boards consist of five members while library boards in cities of the 4th class consist of seven members and library boards in cities of the 2nd or 3rd class consist of nine members. Sec. 43.54(1) (a). Library boards in first class cities consist of 12 members as specified in sec. 43.54(1)(am).

3. Changing from a Village to a City

Under certain circumstances Wisconsin villages may become 4th class cities. A village with a population of at least 1,000 may change to a city by complying with one of the following two statutory procedures:

a. By Resolution

Under Wis. Stat. sec. 61.189, villages with a population exceeding 1,000 (as shown by the last federal census or by a special census) may change to a city of the fourth class by enacting a resolution by a two-thirds vote of all the members of the village board at a regular meeting. The resolution must fix the number and boundaries of the aldermanic districts and arrange the time for holding the first city election, which cannot be less than 20 days from the date of the resolution. The resolution must observe the requirements of secs. 5.15(1) and (2) forwards. In addition, the resolution must designate a polling place for each ward and provide for the appointment of initial inspectors of election.

Villages incorporated after August 12, 1959, may not become a city under Wis. Stat. sec. 61.189, unless they meet the standards of population and area set forth in sec. 66.0205, as determined by the circuit court, and the standards of public interest and urbanization set forth in sec. 66.0207, as determined by the department of administration. Sec. 61.189(4).

b. By Charter Ordinance

The second method by which a village may become a city is set forth in Wis. Stat. sec. 61.188. This section permits villages having a population of 1,000 or more to organize as a city of the appropriate class by adoption of a charter or charter ordinance. The law was enacted as a result of the Wisconsin Supreme Court’s decision in Bleck v. Monona Village, 34 Wis.2d 191, 148 N.W.2d 708 (1967). In that case, the court held that changes in statutory procedures or offices required for cities could not be effected by charter ordinance until a village had been formally organized into a city under existing statutory procedures.

Under Wis. Stat. sec. 61.188, a village over 1,000 in population may, when converting to a city by charter ordinance, elect not to be governed by chs. 62 or 66 in whole or in part or may create such system of government as is deemed by the village to be the most appropriate for its situation. The charter or charter ordinance may address such matters as method of election of members of the council by districts, at large or by a combination of methods; procedures for election of the first council; and creation and selection of administrative officers, departments, boards and commissions and their powers and duties. The charter or charter ordinance may not, however, alter the provisions of ch. 62 dealing with police and fire departments.

Villages incorporated after August 12, 1959 may not become cities by charter or charter ordinance under sec. 61.188, unless they meet the standards of population and area set forth in sec. 66.0205 as determined by the circuit court, and the standards of public interest and urbanization set forth in sec. 66.0207 as applied by the department of administration.
4. Changing from a City to a Village

Cities whose populations fall below 1,000 in a federal census may reorganize as villages under a petition and referendum procedure set forth in Wis. Stat. sec. 66.0213(6).

5. Classes of Cities

Wisconsin law divides cities into four classes for purposes relating to governmental administration and the exercise of corporate power. The division is based on population as determined by the last federal decennial census or a special interim census. Section 62.05(1) provides that the four classes of cities are as follows:

- Cities of one hundred and fifty thousand (150,000) population and over constitute cities of the first class.
- Cities of thirty-nine thousand (39,000) and less than one hundred and fifty thousand population (150,000) constitute cities of the second class.
- Cities of ten thousand (10,000) and less than thirty-nine thousand (39,000) population constitute cities of the third class.
- Cities of less than ten thousand population (10,000) constitute cities of the fourth class.

A city changes from one class of city to another only when all of the following conditions are met: (1) a federal census shows that the city’s population has reached the required population; (2) provisions for any necessary changes in government have been duly made; and (3) a proclamation by the mayor (manager), declaring the change, has been published under ch. 985. Sec. 62.05(2).

Presently, the city of Milwaukee is the only first class city in Wisconsin. At the time of this writing, there are 16 cities of the 2nd class, 30 cities of the 3rd class and 143 cities of the 4th class. There are cities, such as Madison, whose populations would permit their inclusion in a higher or lower classification but which have not taken the two discretionary steps necessary to alter their official classification. Indeed, Wis. Stat. sec. 990.001(15) expressly provides that “if a statute refers to a class of city specified under s. 62.05(1), such reference does not include any city with a population which makes the city eligible to be in that class unless the city has taken the actions necessary to pass into the class under s. 62.05(2).” Section 990.001(15) was enacted in response to City of Madison v. Town of Fitchburg, 112 Wis.2d 224, 332 N.W.2d 782 (1982), in which the court treated Madison as a first class city even though it had not taken the steps to change its classification.

6. Distinctions Among Classes of Cities

For the most part, few differences exist between the structures of government in the first three classes of cities. Moreover, since all Wisconsin cities have home rule powers, both constitutional and statutory, the basic governmental powers of all classes of cities are essentially the same.

The greatest discrepancies in structure and authority exist between first class cities and the other classes of cities. In 1921, the legislature repealed all special city charters except the city of Milwaukee’s and provided that cities would subsequently operate under ch. 62 of the Wisconsin statutes. The City of Milwaukee, at its discretion, was authorized to adopt the provisions of ch. 62 by simple ordinance. However, the legislature did not refer to the City of Milwaukee by name but rather as a “city of the first class.”

Over the years, special grants of authority and other provisions relating to cities of the first class have been adopted with only the City of Milwaukee in mind. These laws include ch. 119 relating to the “Milwaukee school system;” sec. 62.50 governing police and fire departments in first class cities; sec. 62.73 relating to discontinuance of streets in first class cities; secs. 74.81, 74.83 and 74.87 authorizing first class cities to sell land for nonpayment of taxes; and secs. 65.01 to 65.20 relating to municipal budget systems in first class cities.

Part of the municipal budget system applicable to first class cities may be adopted by 2nd, 3rd and 4th class cities. Specifically, the common council of any 2nd, 3rd, and 4th class city may, by ordinance adopted by three-fourths of all its members, accept the provisions of secs. 65.02, 65.03 and 65.04, relating to the creation of a board of estimates. Wis. Stat. sec. 65.01. All cities besides the City of Milwaukee that have not adopted secs. 65.02, 65.03 and 65.04 are governed by sec. 65.90 when developing or modifying an annual budget.

Probably the most significant distinction in power based on class of city is that 4th class cities have extraterritorial zoning and plat approval jurisdiction for only 1.5 miles beyond their corporate boundaries as contrasted with three miles for other classes of cities. Wis. Stat. secs. 62.23(7a)(a) and 236.02(s). Certain regulations with respect to firefighters also differ for 4th class cities. Secs. 62.13(ll) and (11a) and 213.13.

The common council of a 1st, 2nd or 3rd class city with a water or sewerage system, or the officer or board in charge, must appoint one or more plumbing supervisors who shall be licensed plumbers. Wis. Stat. sec. 145.05.

Library boards in fourth class cities consist of seven members while library boards in cities of the 2nd or 3rd class consist of nine members. Wis. Stat. sec. 43.54(1)(a). Library boards in first class cities consist of 12 members as specified in sec. 43.54(1)(am).

With respect to shared revenue and other financial provisions of the Wisconsin statutes, distinctions are based on population rather than class of city. In recent years little use has been made of class distinctions among cities except with respect to Milwaukee, the state’s only first class city. The most significant reason for changing from a 4th class city to a 3rd or 2nd class city would be to expand extraterritorial zoning and plat approval jurisdiction.

B Incorporation, Consolidation and Other Ways Cities and Villages are Created

1. Incorporation

Until 1871 for villages and 1892 for cities, municipalities were incorporated by special acts of the Wisconsin legislature. Altogether, 213 villages and 110 cities were incorporated by special act during the early years of Wisconsin’s statehood. Many of the cities incorporated in this manner were first incorporated as villages.

After 1892 all incorporations of cities and villages in Wisconsin were achieved by following the incorporation procedures promulgated by the legislature and set forth in the Wisconsin statutes. At the time of this publication, 190 cities and 406 villages were incorporated and functioning in Wisconsin.
Current procedures for the incorporation of new cities and villages out of town territory are found in Wis. Stat. secs. 66.0201 - 66.0213. The incorporation process is commenced by the publication of a Notice of Intent to Circulate an Incorporation Petition as a class 1 notice within the county in which the territory involved is located. Sec. 66.0203(1). Circulation of the petition for incorporation must begin not less than 10 days nor more than 20 days after the date of publication of the notice of intent to circulate. Sec. 66.0203(2)(f). The petition for incorporation must be in writing and signed by 50 or more persons who are both electors and freeholders (i.e., landowners) in the territory to be incorporated. If the population of the proposed village or city is less than 300, then the petition need only be signed by 25 or more electors and freeholders. Sec. 66.0203(2)(a). The petition must be filed with the circuit court of the county in which all or a major part of the territory to be incorporated is located within six months of the date of publication of the notice of intention to circulate. Sec. 66.0203(2)(b).

Upon the filing of the petition, the court schedules a hearing on the incorporation petition. Notice of the filing of the petition and of the date of the hearing must be published in the territory to be incorporated as a class 2 notice. Notice must also be given by certified or registered mail to the clerk of each “metropolitan municipality” of “the metropolitan community” in which the territory is located. Any municipality entitled to the above notice and any other person found by the court to be a party in interest may become a party to the proceeding. Also, any municipality with boundaries contiguous to the territory proposed for incorporation may file with the circuit court a copy of a resolution adopted by a two-thirds vote of the elected members of the governing body indicating a willingness to annex the territory designated in the incorporation petition. Wis. Stat. sec. 66.0203(6).

After the circuit court holds a hearing on the petition, it must determine whether the standards under sec. 66.0205 are met. If the court finds that the standards are not met, the petition is dismissed. If the court finds that the standards are met, the petition is referred to the department of administration. Sec. 66.0203(8).

The Wisconsin Department of Administration’s Incorporation Review Board must then determine whether the petition meets the standards set forth in Wis. Stat. secs. 66.0207, 66.0205 and 66.0217(6). Any party in interest may request that the department hold a hearing on the petition. The determination of the department must be either:

1. the petition is dismissed,
2. the petition is granted and an incorporation referendum held, or
3. the petition is dismissed with a recommendation that a new petition be submitted to include more or less territory as specified in the department’s findings and determinations.

Sec. 66.0203(9). If the petition is dismissed without a recommendation that a new petition be submitted, no petition for the incorporation of the same territory may be entertained for one year following the date of the denial. Sec. 66.0204(9)(h). If the petition is granted, the circuit court must order that an incorporation referendum be held under sec. 66.0211 in the territory proposed for incorporation. If a majority of the votes in an incorporation referendum are cast in favor of a city or village, a new city or village is created.

2. The Rule of Prior Precedence

When an annexation and an incorporation proceeding affecting the same territory are commenced at approximately the same time the general rule is that the proceeding first instituted has precedence, regardless of which is first completed or effective. Brown Deer v. Milwaukee, 274 Wis. 50, 58, 79 N.W.2d 340, 345 (1956). The date a proceeding is “instituted” is the date on which the earliest statutory requirement is undertaken. Town of Delavan v. City of Delavan, 176 Wis.2d 516, 532, 500 N.W.2d 268, 274 (1993). With annexations, this will vary depending on which method of annexation is used. With most direct annexations and annexations by referendum under Wis. Stat. sec. 66.021, publication of the Notice of Intent to Circulate is the first step. With incorporations, the first step is publication of the Notice of Intent to Circulate an Incorporation Petition. Thus, under the “Rule of Prior Precedence,” if a Notice of Intent to Circulate a Petition for Incorporation is published before a Notice of Intent to Circulate an Annexation Petition, the incorporation proceeding would have priority until the territory becomes incorporated or until the petition is dismissed.

The significance of this is that towns can use the Rule of Prior Precedence to temporarily freeze boundaries and thwart annexations. For example, a town or town resident may file a Notice of Intent to Circulate an Incorporation Proceeding if it knows that an annexation proceeding involving town territory is about to be commenced. While the incorporation proceeding has priority, no annexation can be effective. As noted above, the incorporation proceeding has priority until the territory becomes incorporated or until the petition is dismissed. Due to insufficient staff levels at the department of administration, it can take a long time for the department to determine whether to dismiss or grant an incorporation petition. This is true even though the statute states that the department must issue its decision within 90 days after receiving the petition from the circuit court and even though it might appear obvious that the territory proposed for incorporation does not meet the standards for incorporation set forth in the statutes.

3. The Oak Creek Law

One exception to the general incorporation procedure for creating new cities and villages is found in Wis. Stat. sec. 66.0215. This law, which was created in 1955, is commonly referred to as the “Oak Creek law” because it was successfully utilized shortly after its enactment to incorporate the city of Oak Creek in Milwaukee county. City of Milwaukee v. Town of Oak Creek, 8 Wis.2d 102, 98 N.W.2d 469 (1959). Incorporation of a city under the Oak Creek law requires a town population exceeding 5,000, an equalized valuation in excess of $20 million, location adjacent to a first class city, a petition of elector-taxpayers and owners of real estate and a successful referendum. Because of its specific requirements, the Oak Creek law has limited applicability.

4. Consolidation

Another way a town may become a city or village is by consolidating with an existing contiguous city or village under Wis. Stat. sec. 66.0229. Under this process, a consolidation ordinance must be passed by a two-thirds vote of all the members of each board or council, fixing the terms of the consolidation. The electors at a referendum held in each municipality must then ratify the consolidation ordinances. Any consolidation ordinance proposing the consolidation of a town and a municipality must, prior to being submitted to the voters for ratification at a referendum, be submitted to the circuit court and the department of administration for a determination whether such proposed consolidation is in the public interest. The circuit court must determine whether the proposed ordinance meets the requirements of sec. 66.0229 and then refer the matter to the department of administration. The department then determines whether the proposed consolidation is in the public interest in accordance with the standards in sec. 66.0207.
C. Annexation and Detachment

Annexation is the process by which parcels of land in unincorporated areas come under the jurisdiction of adjacent cities or villages. Annexation in Wisconsin is a landowner-driven process. Landowners are motivated to annex their land into a city or village for different reasons, but generally it is the desire to obtain higher levels of service, such as sewer or water, than the town is able or willing to provide. Cities and villages cannot unilaterally annex town territory unless the parcels are town islands in existence on December 2, 1973 or are owned by the municipality.

The following is a brief summary of the powers of annexation and detachment. For a comprehensive discussion of annexation procedures and sample annexation forms see the League’s Annexation of Territory manual.

1. Methods of Annexation

The statutes provide several methods of annexation. These are:

- Direct Annexation (including Annexation by Unanimous Approval)
- Annexation by Referendum
- Annexation of Town Islands in Existence on December 2, 1973
- Annexation by Court Ordered Referendum under Wis. Stat. sec. 66.0219.
- Annexation of Municipally-Owned Territory under Wis. Stat. sec. 66.0223.

The most common method of annexation is direct annexation initiated by electors and property owners under sec. 66.0217. Under this method, town territory contiguous to a city or village may be annexed when a petition of electors and property owners is filed with the city or village requesting that the described territory in which they reside or own property be annexed. The annexation becomes effective only after a city or village’s governing body enacts an annexation ordinance by a two-thirds vote of all the members of the body. If a sufficient number of electors residing within the territory to be annexed petition for a referendum on the annexation within the statutory time limits, a referendum will be held in the area proposed for annexation. A majority vote against annexation nullifies the annexation or halts the annexation process from proceeding. A majority vote in favor of annexation validates the annexation or allows the annexation process to proceed.

2. Municipal Boundaries Fixed by Judgment

Any two municipalities whose boundaries are immediately adjacent at any point and who are parties to any action, proceeding or appeal in court for the purpose of testing the validity of any annexation, may stipulate, in writing, a compromise that settles the litigation and determines the common boundary line between the municipalities. Wis. Stat. sec. 66.0225. The governing bodies of the annexing and detaching municipalities must approve the stipulation. The court having jurisdiction of the litigation may enter a final judgment incorporating the stipulation’s provisions and fixing the common boundary of the municipalities involved.

Any change of municipal boundaries by stipulation is subject to a referendum of the electors residing within the territory annexed or detached if a petition for a referendum is filed with the clerk of the municipality from which the territory is proposed to be detached. If such a petition is filed, a referendum must be conducted in the same manner as annexation referenda. If the vote is against detachment from the town, then all the proceedings under sec. 66.0225 are void.
3. Detachment of Territory

Territory may be detached from any city or village and be attached to any city, village or town, to which it is contiguous, by following the procedures set forth in Wis. Stat. sec. 66.0227. The detachment process is commenced when a petition signed by the owners of land within the territory to be detached is filed with the city or village from which detachment is sought. Detachment can occur only if an ordinance detaching such territory is enacted by a vote of three-fourths of all the members of the governing body of the detaching city or village and its terms accepted by an ordinance enacted by a vote of three-fourths of all the members of the governing body of the city, village or town to which such territory will be annexed.

The governing body of any city, village or town involved may demand a referendum, on the issue of detachment. Likewise citizens can petition for a referendum on the issue of detachment. If a referendum is held, the detachment ordinances shall not take effect and be in force unless a majority of the electors approve the detachment.

4. Detachment of Farm Lands from Cities and Villages

Wis. Stat. sec. 62.075, which is made applicable to villages by sec. 61.74, provides a procedure whereby agricultural land may be detached from a municipality. Land is eligible for detachment under this section if it is contiguous to the boundary of any city or village, consists of 200 acres or more and has been within the municipal limits for at least 20 years and during all that time has been used exclusively for agricultural purposes. No owner is eligible to sign a petition for the detachment of agricultural land under this section unless he or she owns at least a 20 acre parcel. In addition, no land may be detached from a municipality unless the remaining territory of the municipality is left reasonably compact and regular. Also, no lands in which public improvements have been installed are eligible for detachment under this section.

Under Wis. Stat. sec. 62.075, the owner or owners of all the territory proposed to be detached must file a petition for detachment with the clerk of circuit court. The court sets a hearing on the detachment. Prior to the hearing the municipality, town and owners of land in the vicinity may file with the court any objections they may have to the detachment. The court must enter judgment detaching the land described in the petition and annexing it to the adjacent town if all the conditions and requirements set forth in sec. 62.075 have been complied with.

D. The Powers of City and Village Governing Bodies

(For a more in-depth treatment of municipal home rule in Wisconsin and complete legal citations, see League Legal Opinion Home Rule 59-R1 (July 2009)).

Because municipalities were created by the State, they have been referred to as “creatures of the state.” As “creatures of the state,” municipalities have no inherent powers and have only the powers given them. Wisconsin cities and villages are fortunate in that they have been granted extensive home rule powers. “Home rule” is the ability of cities and villages to govern themselves in local matters without state interference. Unlike cities and villages, towns do not have home rule powers and must have specific statutory authorization to exercise control in a given area. Counties have limited “organizational or administrative” home rule powers. Although Wisconsin municipalities enjoy broad home rule authority, that authority has been eroded by the legislature and Wisconsin courts in recent years.
1. The History of Home Rule in Wisconsin

In 1911, the legislature passed a home rule statute permitting every city in the state to amend or alter its existing charter or to adopt a new charter by charter convention. This statute had been sought by home rule proponents, seeking to keep control at the local level and exempt cities and villages from state legislative control as much as possible. The legislature was motivated to grant home rule powers because so much of its time was devoted to considering legislation relating to city charter powers and it was thought that the home rule statute would relieve the legislature of this considerable burden. However, the home rule statute was short lived. The Wisconsin Supreme Court voided the home rule statute just one year later on the ground that the constitution gave the legislature, not municipalities, the power to affect municipal charters, and that the legislature’s statutory delegation of that power was therefore unlawful. After the home rule statute was declared unconstitutional, home rule proponents turned their efforts towards amending the constitution to allow home rule.

Voters adopted the constitutional home rule amendment in a 1924 referendum. This amendment empowered municipalities to determine their local affairs and government by use of a method to be specified by the legislature. In 1925, the legislature adopted Wis. Stat. sec. 66.01 which established the procedure for enacting charter ordinances. Section 66.01, renumbered as sec. 66.0101 in 2001, is often referred to as the enabling legislation for implementing the powers granted municipalities by the constitutional home rule amendment. The legislature also gave cities and villages comprehensive statutory home rule powers in the general charter laws applicable to cities and villages (chs. 61 and 62). These two sources of home rule authority are explained in more detail below.

2. Sources of Home Rule

Wisconsin municipalities have two sources of home rule authority: (a) Constitutional and (b) statutory or legislative. There are important differences between these two sources of authority.

a. Constitutional Home Rule

The Constitutional home rule amendment, adopted in 1924, allows municipalities to determine their local affairs and government, subject only to the constitution and to legislative enactments of statewide concern that uniformly affect every city or every village. Wis. Const., Art. XI, sec. 3. However, the courts have recognized that because almost every municipal activity has some statewide effect, matters that are local affairs may also be matters of statewide concern.

The constitutional home rule amendment requires a municipality to exercise constitutional home rule through a charter ordinance enacted pursuant to Wis. Stat. sec. 66.0101. The courts have interpreted the constitutional home rule amendment as doing two things: First, it directly grants legislative power to municipalities by expressly giving cities and villages the power to determine their local affairs and government. Second, it limits the legislature in its enactments in the field of local affairs of cities and villages.

To determine whether a municipality has validly exercised its constitutional home rule authority or whether the state legislature has unconstitutionally interfered with a municipality’s “local affairs,” the legislative enactment, whether state or local, must first be classified as one of three kinds:
1. exclusively of statewide concern;
2. exclusively a matter of a municipality’s local affairs and government; or
3. a “mixed bag.” The “mixed bag” includes matters that are not exclusively of local or statewide concern.

The courts have recognized that many matters while of statewide concern, affecting the people and state at large somewhat remotely and indirectly, at the same time affect individual municipalities directly and intimately, and therefore are properly considered local affairs.

If the matter is exclusively of statewide concern, the constitutional home rule amendment grants no power to a municipality to deal with it. The legislature may either delegate to municipalities a limited authority or responsibility to further public interests or may preempt the field by expressly banning local legislative action. Furthermore, when the legislature deals with matters that are primarily of statewide concern, it may deal with them free of any restriction contained in the home-rule amendment. Thus, the legislature can enact a law touching on a matter of statewide concern which applies in one city and not in another, provided that the classification is proper.

If, however, the subject can be classified as an area primarily and paramountly a matter of the local affairs and government of the municipality, then the municipality is authorized by the home rule amendment to enact a charter ordinance regulating that subject matter. Furthermore, any state legislative delegation of authority to legislate on such a subject is unnecessary and any attempt by the legislature to preempt or ban local legislative action in such an area would be unconstitutional. Finally, if the legislature elects to deal with the local affairs and government of a city or village, its act is subordinate to a charter ordinance unless the legislature’s act uniformly affects every city or village across the state.

If a matter falls into the “mixed bag” category, it is necessary to apply what is referred to as the “paramountcy” test — whether the legislative enactment in question is “primarily or paramountly a matter of local affairs and government under the home rule amendment or of statewide concern.” Although legislative pronouncements classifying a subject as a “local affair” or a “matter of state-wide concern,” are entitled to great weight, they are not controlling and courts have the final say in deciding whether a matter is properly classified as primarily or paramountly a matter of “local affairs and government” under the home rule amendment or of “state-wide concern.” Once the legislative enactment has been classified as being paramountly a matter of local affairs and government or a matter of statewide concern, it is analyzed accordingly.

The courts have classified the vast majority of legislative enactments falling into the mixed category as matters which are paramountly of statewide concern. There are two notable exceptions. In State ex rel. Ekern v. Milwaukee, the Wisconsin Supreme Court upheld a Milwaukee charter ordinance which declared a state statute limiting the height of buildings in first class cities to 125 feet inapplicable and permitted a higher maximum height. The court held that building heights in a community was primarily a matter of the local affairs of the community. The Ekern case is significant because it marks the only time a municipality has successfully asserted constitutional home rule powers in the face of a contrary statute.

---

3. 90 Wis. 633, 638, 209 N.W. 860, 862 (1926).
In another case, State ex rel. Michalek v. LeGrand, the court upheld a Milwaukee rent-withholding ordinance, enacted to secure compliance with zoning and building codes by providing for escrow of a tenant’s rent until a landlord brought a building into compliance with zoning and building codes. The court held that enactment was primarily and paramortantly an enactment that was a matter of “local affairs and government.” The court found no conflict between the city’s ordinance and state law governing landlord-tenant relations.

In contrast to those two cases, the majority of court decisions analyzing a municipality’s attempt to exert constitutional home rule authority have concluded that the municipal enactment must be characterized as primarily a matter of statewide concern. Thus, municipalities have not fared well in asserting constitutional home rule in the courts. Perhaps that is one reason why municipalities have not used constitutional home rule with any frequency. Other reasons suggested are that the procedures in Wis. Stat. sec. 66.0101 for using constitutional home rule are complicated, there is uncertainty as to what the law allows municipalities to do, local officials tend to pass responsibility on to the legislature on controversial issues, and the availability of statutory or legislative home rule (discussed below) which is a broader and more flexible grant of power. Whatever the reason, it is unfortunate that municipalities do not exercise their constitutional home rule authority more often. Constitutional home rule authority will remain a significant source of authority only if municipalities understand what it is and how the courts analyze the use of that authority, and continue to assert it as a viable source of authority. It is up to municipalities to educate the courts regarding constitutional home rule authority.

b. Legislative or Statutory Home Rule (General Police Power)

The legislative or statutory grants of home rule power are found in Wis. Stat. secs. 62.11(5) (cities) and 61.34(1) (villages). Statutory home rule power is separate and distinct from the constitutional home rule power. Unlike sec. 66.0101, secs. 62.11(5) and 61.34(1) are not “enabling statutes” of the constitution. Instead, they are independent sources of authority. These grants of power are very broad and give the governing body of the municipality, except as otherwise provided by law, management and control of the municipality’s property, finances, highways, navigable waters, and the public service. The statutes empower the governing body to act for the government and good order of the municipality, for its commercial benefit, and for the health, safety, and welfare of the public, and authorize the governing body to carry out its powers by license, regulation, suppression, borrowing of money, tax levy, appropriation, fine, imprisonment, confiscation, and other necessary or convenient means.

Unlike constitutional home rule, legislative or statutory home rule is not limited to local affairs and government. Indeed, the courts have said that legislative home rule would be a nullity if it were construed to confer on municipalities only that authority which relates to “local affairs” since that power is already constitutionally guaranteed by the home-rule amendment. Thus, municipalities may act even in matters of statewide concern when exercising statutory home rule powers although there are limits to what they can do.

Municipalities may enact ordinances in the same field and on the same subject covered by state legislation where such ordinances do not conflict with, but rather complement, the state legislation. However, a municipality cannot lawfully forbid what the legislature has expressly licensed, authorized or required or authorize what legislation has forbidden. If the state has expressed through legislation public policy concerning a subject, a municipality cannot ordain an effect contrary to or in qualification of the established public policy unless there is a specific, positive, lawful grant of power by the state to the municipality to so ordain.

---

4. 77 Wis.2d 520, 253 N.W.2d 505, 506 (1977).
5. 1979-80 Wisconsin Blue Book at 48.
Where a municipality acts within the legislative grant of power but not within the constitutional initiative, the state has the authority to withdraw the power of the municipality to act. The Wisconsin Supreme Court has devised a four-part test for determining whether such a legislatively intended withdrawal of power which would necessarily nullify the local ordinance has occurred. If any one of the following questions is answered with a “yes,” the ordinance will fail. The questions are:

1. whether the legislature has expressly withdrawn municipalities’ power to act;
2. whether the ordinance logically conflicts with the state legislation;
3. whether the ordinance defeats the purpose of the state legislation; or
4. whether the ordinance goes against the spirit of the state legislation.

3. State of Wisconsin Home Rule

Although at first glance it appears municipal home rule is alive and well in Wisconsin, a closer look shows a disturbing trend. Despite the legislature’s declaration that statutory home rule powers are to be liberally construed in favor of the rights, powers and privileges of cities and villages to promote the general welfare, peace, good order and prosperity of the municipalities and their inhabitants and the express statement that the powers conferred by legislative home rule are in addition to all other grants and shall be limited only by express language and the courts’ recognition that the statutory grant of power confers upon a municipality “all the powers that the legislature could by any possibility confer upon it,” municipal home rule in Wisconsin is being whittled away. The courts have been willing to allow implied preemption and the legislature has, with increasing frequency, preempted local regulation or allowed local regulation only when it strictly conforms to state legislation. In order to protect home rule in Wisconsin and keep it strong, municipalities need to be aware of the framework for exercising their home rule powers and vigilant in protesting against unwarranted incursions.

The lists below illustrate some areas where municipalities have been preempted or limited in exercising home rule authority.

List 1: Municipalities cannot exercise home rule powers where Wisconsin Constitution vests responsibility in state:

- Creation of municipal corporations (incorporation).
- Alteration of municipal boundaries (annexation, consolidation, detachment).
- Taxation (power to tax for revenue purposes; includes power to grant tax exemptions).
- Streets and highways (held in trust for traveling public).

7. Wis. Const., Art. IV, sec. 31, par. 9 and Art. IV, sec. 32; City of Madison v. Town of Madison, 127 Wis.2d 96, 377 N.W.2d 221 (Ct. App. 1985); Bleck v. Monona Village, 34 Wis.2d 151, 148 N.W.2d 708 (1967); Scharping v. Johnson, 32 Wis. 2d 303, 145 N.W.2d 691 (1966); In re Incorporation of Village of Elmwood Park, 9 Wis.2d 592, 101 N.W.2d 659 (1960); Barth v. Village of Shorewood, 229 Wis. 151, 282 N.W.2d 89 (1938).
• Navigable waters (held in trust for public by state — includes promotion of navigation, protection for fishing, recreation and scenic beauty and eradication and prevention of pollution).11
• Creation of courts.12
• Designation of appointment authorities for city, village and town officers.13

List 2: Municipalities cannot exercise home rule powers where state statutes preempt local exercise of authority:

Zoning/Building Regulations:

• State buildings, structures or facilities are not subject to the ordinances or regulations of the municipality in which the construction takes place except zoning, including, without limitation because of enumeration, ordinances or regulations relating to materials used, permits, supervision of construction or installation, payment of permit fees, or other restrictions.14
• Buildings, structures or facilities constructed at state fair park are not subject to zoning or any other ordinances or regulations of the municipality in which the park is located.15
• Construction on or use of land designated by DNR as part of the ice age trail is a permitted use under any zoning ordinance enacted by a municipality. A municipality may not refuse to permit construction of a portion of the ice age trail on property owned by the municipality if the municipality determines that the trail does not conflict with other existing or proposed uses of the property.16
• Municipalities cannot impose construction standards on one- and two-family dwellings, multifamily dwellings, manufactured housing and mobile homes which bear insignia or labels showing manufacture under standards established by state law and the Wisconsin Department of Safety and Professional Services. However, municipalities may regulate the construction and installation of windows and doors in multifamily dwellings if the regulation is related to preventing illegal entry.17

Limitation of Powers in Miscellaneous areas:

• Municipalities cannot regulate obscenity.18
• Municipalities cannot levy local income taxes.19
• With very limited exceptions, municipalities cannot regulate pesticides.20
• State regulation relating to emergency temporary locations of government controls over any contrary or conflicting statutory, charter or ordinance provision to the contrary.21
• Municipalities cannot regulate the sale of cigarettes.22
• Municipalities cannot regulate living wages.23

---

11. State v. Trudeau, 139 Wis.2d 91, 408 N.W.2d 337 (1987); Menomonee Falls v. Wisconsin DNR, 140 Wis.2d 579, 412 N.W.2d 505 (Ct. App. 1987); Just v. Marinette County, 56 Wis.2d 7, 201 N.W.2d 761 (1972); Madison v. Tolzmann, 7 Wis.2d 570, 97 N.W.2d 513 (1959); Fond du Lac v. Town of Empire, 273 Wis. 333, 77 N.W.2d 699 (1956).
16. Wis. Stat. secs. 23.17(5g) and (5r).
17. Wis. Stat. secs. 101.63(1), 101.75(2), 101.94(2), and 101.975(1).
18. Wis. Stat. sec. 66.0107(3).
20. Wis. Stat. sec. 94.701(1).
21. Wis. Stat. sec. 166.06(3).
Chapter I: Municipal Governments in Wisconsin

- Municipalities cannot regulate family medical leave.24
- Municipalities are prohibited from enacting ordinances that place certain requirements on landlords.25
- Municipalities cannot regulate police departments, fire departments, or combined protective departments contrary to state law.
- Municipalities cannot provide public health services except as authorized.
- Municipalities cannot regulate prevailing wage.26
- Municipalities have limited authority to regulate the siting and expansion of livestock facilities as defined by statute.27

Licensing:

- Municipalities cannot adopt ordinances requiring local numbering, registration or licensing of boats or local regulations excluding any boat from free use of state waters.28
- Municipalities cannot license local milk processors.29
- Municipalities cannot register motor vehicles, license motor vehicle operators or prohibit or restrict free use of public highways except as authorized by state law.30
- Municipal aeronautics ordinances cannot provide for the suspension or revocation of pilot or aircraft licenses or certificates and cannot provide for imprisonment except for failure to pay any fine which may be imposed. No municipality can enact any ordinance governing aircraft or aeronautics contrary to or inconsistent with ch. 114, Stats., or federal law.31
- Municipalities cannot license state-licensed plumbers.32
- Municipal water utilities are subject to rate and service regulation by the Wisconsin Public Service Commission.33

List 3: Municipal home rule is limited or non-existent where state statutes require local regulations be in strict conformity or consistent with state law:

- Municipality can enact ordinance regulating all-terrain vehicles if it is in strict conformity with statute and rules, and encompasses all aspects of the section.34
- Ordinance dealing with navigation aids system and affecting markers and buoys in adjacent outlying waters may not conflict with uniform navigation aids system established by DNR or with any county ordinance. Any local ordinance in conflict is void.35
- Boating ordinances must be in strict conformity with state law but additional regulations not in conflict with state law may be enacted.36
- Local ordinances regulating firearms are prohibited unless they are the “same as or similar to, and no more stringent than” state law.37

---

24. Wis. Stat. secs. 103.10(1m)(a) and (c).
25. Wis. Stat. secs. 66.0104
26. Wis. Stat. sec. 66.0903(1m).
27. Wis. Stat. sec. 93.90(3).
30. Wis. Stat. sec. 349.03(2).
32. Wis. Stat. sec. 145.04(2).
37. Wis. Stat. sec. 66.0409(2).
• Ordinances regulating weights and measures may not conflict with ch. 98 or rules.\textsuperscript{38}
• Cities and villages may not adopt health or safety regulations for public buildings or places of employment conflicting with the orders of the Wisconsin Department of Safety and Professional Services, but nonconflicting regulations by the common council, village board or local board of health are allowed.\textsuperscript{39}
• Local regulation of aeronautics permissible if ordinance is in strict conformity with ch. 114.\textsuperscript{40}
• Municipalities may prescribe additional regulations on the sale of fermented malt beverages or intoxicating liquors not in conflict with state regulations. Cities and villages may regulate conduct regulating underage persons if ordinance strictly conforms with statutes.\textsuperscript{41}
• Ordinances relating to sale of cigarettes to minors must strictly conform to state law. \textsuperscript{42}
• All plumbing installations must conform to state code, but sec. 145.04(1) permits additional local regulations relating to local permits for the installation, alteration and inspection of plumbing.\textsuperscript{43}
• Department of Health Services rules relating to the control of communicable diseases supersede conflicting or less stringent local regulations, orders or ordinances.\textsuperscript{44}
• Municipalities may enact and enforce any provisions of chs. 341 to 348 relating to motor vehicles if local regulations are in strict conformity;\textsuperscript{45}
• Municipalities may regulate bicycles by ordinance enacted pursuant to sec. 349.06.\textsuperscript{46}
• Municipal regulations of snowmobile operation on highways must be in strict conformity with ch. 350.\textsuperscript{47}

4. Emergency Power

a. Local emergency

In the event of an emergency, Wisconsin municipalities are empowered, despite any other provision of law to the contrary, to declare, by ordinance or resolution, an emergency existing within the city, village or town “whenever conditions arise by reason of a riot or civil commotion, a disaster, or an imminent threat of a disaster, that impairs transportation, food or fuel supplies, medical care, fire, health or police protection or other critical systems of the local unit of government.”\textsuperscript{48} The ordinance or resolution must limit the emergency period to the time during which the emergency conditions exist or are likely to exist. The governing body’s emergency power includes the authority to order, by ordinance or resolution, whatever is “necessary and expedient for the health, safety, welfare and good order of the [municipality] in the emergency and includes without limitation because of enumeration the power to bar, restrict or remove all unnecessary traffic, both vehicular and pedestrian, from the local highways. The governing body can also provide penalties for violation of any emergency ordinance or resolution not to exceed a $100 forfeiture or, in default of payment of the forfeiture, 6 months’ imprisonment for each separate offense. If the municipal governing body cannot meet promptly because of the emergency, the chief executive officer or acting chief executive officer is empowered to exercise by proclamation all of the powers conferred upon the governing body which the officer believes necessary and expedient. Any such proclamation is subject to ratification, alteration, modification or \textsuperscript{38} Wis. Stat. sec. 98.04(1).

\textsuperscript{39} Wis. Stat. sec. 101.02(7).
\textsuperscript{40} Wis. Stat. sec. 114.105.
\textsuperscript{41} Wis. Stat. sec. 125.10(2).
\textsuperscript{42} Wis. Stat. sec. 134.66(5).
\textsuperscript{43} Wis. Stat. sec. 145.13.
\textsuperscript{44} Wis. Stat. sec. 252.02(4).
\textsuperscript{45} Wis. Stat. sec. 349.06.
\textsuperscript{46} Wis. Stat. sec. 349.18.
\textsuperscript{47} Wis. Stat. ch. 350 (sec. 349.06).
\textsuperscript{48} Wis. Stat. sec. 323.11.